

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's telephone Privacy Law protections. The privacy law has significantly decreased the time at home that was spent on the phone with telemarketers.